MEXICAN TRAIN HELD UP

THREE AMERICANS ROB THE EXPRESS CAR OF FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS.

ROBBERY A DARING ONE

Two of the Bandits Secrete Themselves on the Blind Baggage and Make Their Way into the Express Car—Messenger Offers no Resistance and the Men Rifle the Safe. Robbers Make Their Escape.

El Paso, Tex., July 24.—A daring holdup took place on the Mexican Central at about 12:30 o'clock a. m. just after the train left Bermejo. At Bermejo three Americans boarded the train, two secluding themselves on the blind baggage and the other entering the third class coach. As soon as the train pulled out, the two riding on the blind baggage entered the express car, and, covering Messenger Buckner with their guns, ordered him to throw up his hands. The messenger offered no resistance. The robbers then went leisurely through the safe, securing $50,000 in currency consigned to the Banco Minero at Chihuahua. They also took what other money packages were in the safe and stood quietly by until the train stopped, making a hasty exit and dropping off the train as it was slowing down. After alighting they disappeared into the darkness of the night.

About the time the robbers entered the express car the conductor of the train became engaged in an altercation with a passenger who refused to pay his fare. Finally the conductor had the train stopped and the passenger ejected. The robbers alighted at the same time. It is now believed the troublesome passenger was a partner of the robbers and his actions aroused to secure the stoppage of the train.

Levee on the Illinois River Gives Way, Flooding More Farms.

Springfield, Ill., July 24.—A portion of Loch levee at Havana was washed away during the day by flood waters of the Illinois river and 12,000 acres of land, 5,000 of which were under cultivation, are now inundated by water varying in depth from five to ten feet. Loch levee protected lands just south of Havana. Just prior to the breaking of the levee the water stood at seventeen feet, a few inches above low water mark and the river is still rising. Workmen struggled for hours in an endeavor to protect the levee. Alarm whistles sounded a warning to the farmers in the flood district. No fatalities have been reported. It is impossible to estimate the property loss with the water still rising.

STATEMENT ISSUED SHOWING LOSSES IN THE PHILIPPINE CAMPAIGN.

BATTLES WERE NUMEROUS

Over Twenty-five Hundred Engagements With the Filipinos Took Place During the Three Years Which the War Lasted—Sixty-nine Officers and Nine Hundred and Thirty-six Men Were Killed in Action.

Washington, July 24.—Major James F. Parker of the adjutant general's office has compiled some interesting statistics, regarding the insurrection in the Philippines. There were 2,561 engagements with the enemy, more or less serious, between Feb. 4, 1899, the date of the battle of Manila, and April 30, 1902, which fixed the virtual downfall of the insurrection. The large proportion of these fights were attacks from ambush on the American troops, or skirmishes in which only small detachments took part.

"In almost no case in these engagements," says Major Parker, "did the American troops surrender or have to retreat, or have to leave their dead and wounded in the possession of the enemy, notwithstanding that in many cases the percentage of loss was high."

The number of troops that have been transported to the Philippine islands and arrived there up to July 16 last was 4,135 officers and 123,803 men. The average strength, taken from monthly returns for the period of the insurrection, was approximately 40,000.

Major Parker places the casualties of the American army as follows:

Killed or died of wounds, 69 officers and 936 enlisted men; death from diseases, 47 officers and 2,535 enlisted men; deaths from accidents, 6 officers and 125 enlisted men; drowned, 6 officers and 257 enlisted men; suicide, 10 officers and 72 enlisted men; murdered, 1 officer and 9 enlisted men. Total deaths, 139 officers and 4,016 enlisted men. Wounded 190 officers, and 2,707 enlisted men, a total of 2,897; killed and wounded and deaths other than by disease, 282 officers and 4,188 enlisted men; total, 4,470. A large proportion of the deaths by drowning occurred in action or in active preparations.

Major Parker makes the proportion of killed and wounded to the strength of the army 9.7.

CAUSES FOUR DEATHS.

Pleasure Party on the Ogechee River Capsized in a Squall.

Savannah, Ga., July 24.—The sloop Lovell Dell, owned and sailed by Captain Allen N. Calder of Thunderbolt, and having on board a pleasure party, was capsized in the Ogechee river near Hell Gate during a squall and Captain Calder's aged mother and infant daughter were drowned. Captain Calder's father and wife were seriously injured and the former may die.

On the sloop were Dr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Calder of Sunbury, Captain and Mrs. Allen N. Calder, of this city, their five children, Vernon, Frank, Lawrence, Delacey and Lawrence, who was drowned, and Mrs. Calder, who was sixty years old. When the storm struck the sloop all except Captain Calder and his son Vernon were in the cabin. The storm struck the sloop so suddenly that all were submerged. Captain Calder dived into the cabin and brought out all except the boy. The captain's mother died soon after being brought out.

Stephen A. Calder and Mrs. Allen N. Calder, father and wife of Captain Calder, died later from their injuries.

THEIR CONDITION PITIABLE.

Hundreds of Iowa and Missouri Farmers Ruined by the Floods.

Keokuk, Ia., July 24.—The Mississippi flood reached its maximum throughout the district on the Missouri side and the crest was at Hannibal at noon, when the stage was at a standstill. The river fell four inches at Quincy and ten inches at Keokuk. The commissioners for Illinois levees report them in good condition and the protected country of many square miles safe. The farmers of the flooded territory are scattering to the cities for work at any kind of employment, some as far north as Dubuque. Hundreds are in a pitiable condition of abject poverty. It will require two weeks to uncover the ground.

TWO HUNDRED LIVES LOST.

Chinese Steamer Capsizes on the West River.

Hong Kong, July 24.—A native steamer has capsized in the West river and 200 persons have been drowned.

Two Soldiers Drowned.

Washington, July 24.—Privates Grover C. Burris of Ohio, and Fred Nolting of Waverly, Pa., members of the hospital corps, stationed at Fort Washington, Md., were drowned Tuesday evening in the Potomac river, a mile below the fort. It is presumed they met their death while bathing, as the boat in which they left the fort was found and in it was the men's clothes.

WHITE AGAIN NOMINATED.

North Dakota Republican Convention Names Its State Ticket.

Fargo, N. D., July 24.—The invincible administration slate had easy sailing in the Republican convention, and the nominations, except that of Cochrane, for the supreme bench, were featureless.

The convention gave him the signal honor of a rising vote, and was repaid by a short address from the popular Grand Forker. His tribute to the other candidates on the ticket made a happy hit and left the delegates in a good natured mood.

There was nothing approaching a fracture of the slate, and the proceedings were marked by the dispatch with which the ticket was put through, nominating speeches being limited to one minute. The ratification was complete. No protest was made except by the delegates who had arrived late and expected some fun. Some diversion was caused by the reading of the report of the resolutions committee by Delegate Streeter of Emmons county, who wanted a re-submission plank in the platform.

He made a redhot speech, and had some able seconds, but the cold water contingent predominated, and the amendment was lost by being referred to the resolutions committee.

The fact that there was some support of the measure indicates that the people of the state are tiring somewhat of the present rigid prohibition law. The only special feature of the resolutions was the adoption of a plank demanding a primary election reform. The state administration was heartily indorsed, with expressions of confidence in the national administration and the state's representatives in congress.

The general conviction is that the ticket is stronger than two years ago, and there is no opposition within the party ranks. All who were defeated were loud in their protestations of loyalty and offers of support.

The ticket is as follows: Congress, T. F. Marshall, Dickey; R. F. Spalding, Cass; governor, Frank White, Barnes; lieutenant governor, David Bartlett, Briggs; supreme court, John M. Cochrane, Grand Forks; secretary of state, E. F. Porter, Foster; auditor, D. M. Holmes, Pembina; treasurer, D. McMillan, Cavalier; commissioner of insurance, Ferdinand Leutz, Morton; attorney general, C. W. Erick, Nelson; superintendent of public instruction, W. L. Stockwell, Walsh; commissioner of agriculture and labor, R. J. Turner, Stark; railroad commissioners, C. J. Lord, Cando; J. F. Shea, Wahpeton; Andrew Shatz, Harvey.

TO STOP SOUTHERN MERGER.

Extra Session of Tennessee Legislature May Be Called.

Nashville, Tenn., July 24.—An extra session of the Tennessee legislature is considered a possibility as a result of recent stories to the effect that a merger of the big Southern railroad systems was being contemplated. In connection with the formation of the Southern Securities company. The movement to have the governor convene the general assembly comes from a party of Nashville business men, who express themselves as very much in earnest in inaugurating a fight against the alleged merger. They will at once petition Governor McMillin, it is said, to institute a thorough investigation of the rumors concerning the merger. If the reports are found to be true every power of the state government will be used to block the consolidation.

Among the remedies suggested is the repeal of the charters of the railroads contemplating entering the consolidation. Another is to so amend charters as to forfeit the charter rights upon entrance into a combination of the kind proposed. Still another is to enact a prohibitory law stringent enough to prevent the operation of the merger without touching the charters of the railroads.

ASKED TO PRESENT CLAIMS.

Shaw Ready to Pay Accounts Resulting From McKinley's Death.

Washington, July 24.—Secretary Shaw and Secretary Cortelyou had a final conference during the day regarding the payment of the accounts resulting from the illness, death and interment of President McKinley. The treasury department has sent a notice to each person who is to receive any of the appropriation made by congress for this purpose to forward a claim and voucher in regular form, when the money will be transmitted shortly thereafter. It has been decided that no detailed account of the expenditures shall be made public, but when all the claims are settled an announcement will be made as to the total.

Texas Claims to Have Seen Mexican Soldiers Kill 500 Indians.

Tucson, Ariz., July 24.—S. N. Jacks, a merchant of Fort Worth, returning from the Haiquiri river country, reports having seen 500 Indians lined up and shot at a small town in Sonora, Mex. The Indians had been captured in the mountains the day before. Some of them were mere boys.

Child Run Down By Train.

Madella, Minn., July 24.—The two-year-old daughter of Mrs. Ryan of this place was run over and killed by a freight train about a mile east of town. Mrs. Ryan and the child were walking and the little one wandered onto the track and the train bore down upon her before she could be rescued.

M'LAURIN'S APPEAL.

He Urges the South to Forget Its Past and Bring Itself Up to Date.

Senator McLaurin has again appealed to the white men of South Carolina to come out of the dead past, to consider the facts of the living present and to base their political action upon those facts. He points out that the South Carolina Democracy no longer pursues vital aims, but is bound to a political tradition from which all life has departed.

The tradition is that the Republican party's national policies are inseparable from negro rule in the south and therefore must be opposed without exception by every white southerner and that the Democratic party's national policies are throughout those of "a white man's government" and therefore must be supported without discrimination. As a result of the persistence of this tradition the white men of the south have done practically nothing to advance their own material interests by political methods, and their representatives in congress have almost uniformly opposed the very measures best calculated to promote the welfare of their constituents.

The south's great need at the close of the civil war was diversification of industries, the addition of manufacturing to agriculture. More than any other section of this country the south needed the stimulating influences of the protective policy. More than any other section proportionately to economic conditions before the war the south has profited by that policy. Yet it had always to be forced upon her in the face of the political opposition of her representatives. Voting always against protection, the south yet owes her great economic development to its effects.

So the south today is more vitally interested in the development of our new possessions and in the extension of our oriental and other markets than any other part of the nation. Her manufacturing industries are new and must seek outlets in new fields because there is the line of least resistance from established rivals. Yet her representatives, obedient to an outworn political tradition, almost invariably oppose these policies because they are Republican. Thus the southern Democracy puts itself continually in the attitude of biting the hand stretched out to aid southern industry.

Against this abnormal situation Senator McLaurin appeals. He does not ask the white men of South Carolina to join the Republican party. He recognizes that the social prejudice against the very name is too strong. But he does ask them not to exclude from their consideration the most important and vital economic issues of the day merely because the Republican party first took up these issues and made them national.

That Senator McLaurin will succeed in thus reorganizing the Democratic party of his state is doubtful. He has the right idea, but appears to lack the force to realize it with himself as leader. Yet his is an idea that in time must prevail, and, though he may experience personal defeat, his work will live on and be fruitful in the end.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Vanilla For Mental Weakness.

Vanilla is one of the most powerful restoratives known in cases of weakened vitality, when a large dose is given. South America in general shows a much slighter tendency to madness than any of the countries which may be called civilized. Statistical authorities attribute this fact to the ignorance and thoughtlessness of the population, but they themselves give the credit to vanilla. At the first sign of mental disturbance they ply the sufferer therewith.

BOERS NEED LIVE STOCK.

Demand For American Sheep and Cattle in South Africa.

The American farm that was drawn upon to supply horses and mules during the war in South Africa is to be drawn upon again to repair the havoc wrought by the war, says a special dispatch from Washington to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Mr. Wilson, secretary of agriculture, has received a letter from E. R. Gobler, a prominent citizen of the Orange Free State, stating that there is already a heavy demand in South Africa, particularly in the Orange Free State, for sheep and cattle for breeding, dairy and slaughtering purposes.

During the war, Mr. Gobler writes, the Boers were compelled to kill their live stock for subsistence and that they were unable to care for their herds or their crops. As a result the farms have well nigh been stripped of live stock of all kinds, and the demand is strongly in favor of securing American stock for the ranges, feed stalls and dairies. Mr. Gobler has also informed the secretary of agriculture that there is a large demand for machinery and agricultural implements of all kinds to replace the supply that was destroyed during the progress of the war.

POCKET CASH REGISTER.

Novel Machine That Will Ring Up Expenditures of Shoppers.

A cash register to be carried in the pocket is the latest novelty to be added to the list of Minneapolis manufactures, says the St. Louis Republic. It is a device by which a shopper may ring up the nickels as she spends them and thus keep exact tab on her financial status. Also the commercial traveler by a simple wagging of the finger when he pays a hotel bill may avoid the brain racking ordeal of filling out his expense account.

The pocket cash register was invented by Eli Zimmerman, a salesman. The register will record in amounts not less than 5 cents each up to a total of $100 before resetting. In dimensions it is 2½ inches long and 1¼ wide and a quarter of an inch in thickness. It is made of aluminum and weighs little. On the face is the register, the first two indicators being for dollars and the third for cents. On the reverse side is the key for registering.

King Edward's Popularity.

Perhaps the essence of King Edward's great popularity is his democratic spirit, his unpretentiousness, writes Sydney Brooks in Harper's Weekly. He reserves ceremony for ceremonial occasions; at other times he is as approachable within, of course, the recognized limits no Englishman would dream of overstepping, as the most radical of his subjects could desire. The people think of him as a "good fellow," a man of the world with tact, experience, kindness and an instinct for saying and doing the right thing at the right moment. This is the popular view of King Edward. It may or may not be the right one; but the fact that ninety-eight out of every hundred people hold it gives the measure of the anxiety and solicitude with which the progress of his illness is being watched.

The Way to Catch a Porcupine.

The porcupine climbs the tree as readily as a squirrel would, provided you don't slip up and cut his tail off while he is going up. Somehow or other he can't climb the tree without his tail, and he won't come down without it. If you catch one of these porcupines climbing a tree and chop his tail off, he will stop right where he is and will stay there until he starves to death unless he is taken away.

As a result of the persistence of this tradition the white men of the south have done practically nothing to advance their own material interests by political methods, and their representatives in congress have almost uniformly opposed the very measures best calculated to promote the welfare of their constituents.

The south's great need at the close of the civil war was diversification of industries, the addition of manufacturing to agriculture. More than any other section of this country the south needed the stimulating influences of the protective policy. More than any other section proportionately to economic conditions before the war the south has profited by that policy. Yet it had always to be forced upon her in the face of the political opposition of her representatives. Voting always against protection, the south yet owes her great economic development to its effects.

So the south today is more vitally interested in the development of our new possessions and in the extension of our oriental and other markets than any other part of the nation. Her manufacturing industries are new and must seek outlets in new fields because there is the line of least resistance from established rivals. Yet her representatives, obedient to an outworn political tradition, almost invariably oppose these policies because they are Republican. Thus the southern Democracy puts itself continually in the attitude of biting the hand stretched out to aid southern industry.

Against this abnormal situation Senator McLaurin appeals. He does not ask the white men of South Carolina to join the Republican party. He recognizes that the social prejudice against the very name is too strong. But he does ask them not to exclude from their consideration the most important and vital economic issues of the day merely because the Republican party first took up these issues and made them national.

That Senator McLaurin will succeed in thus reorganizing the Democratic party of his state is doubtful. He has the right idea, but appears to lack the force to realize it with himself as leader. Yet his is an idea that in time must prevail, and, though he may experience personal defeat, his work will live on and be fruitful in the end.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Vanilla For Mental Weakness.

Vanilla is one of the most powerful restoratives known in cases of weakened vitality, when a large dose is given. South America in general shows a much slighter tendency to madness than any of the countries which may be called civilized. Statistical authorities attribute this fact to the ignorance and thoughtlessness of the population, but they themselves give the credit to vanilla. At the first sign of mental disturbance they ply the sufferer therewith.

BOERS NEED LIVE STOCK.

Demand For American Sheep and Cattle In South Africa.

The American farm that was drawn upon to supply horses and mules during the war in South Africa is to be drawn upon again to repair the havoc wrought by the war, says a special dispatch from Washington to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Mr. Wilson, secretary of agriculture, has received a letter from E. R. Gobler, a prominent citizen of the Orange Free State, stating that there is already a heavy demand in South Africa, particularly in the Orange Free State, for sheep and cattle for breeding, dairy and slaughtering purposes.

During the war, Mr. Gobler writes, the Boers were compelled to kill their live stock for subsistence and that they were unable to care for their herds or their crops. As a result the farms have well nigh been stripped of live stock of all kinds, and the demand is strongly in favor of securing American stock for the ranges, feed stalls and dairies. Mr. Gobler has also informed the secretary of agriculture that there is a large demand for machinery and agricultural implements of all kinds to replace the supply that was destroyed during the progress of the war.

POCKET CASH REGISTER.

Novel Machine That Will Ring Up Expenditures of Shoppers.

A cash register to be carried in the pocket is the latest novelty to be added to the list of Minneapolis manufactures, says the St. Louis Republic. It is a device by which a shopper may ring up the nickels as she spends them and thus keep exact tab on her financial status. Also the commercial traveler by a simple wagging of the finger when he pays a hotel bill may avoid the brain racking ordeal of filling out his expense account.

The pocket cash register was invented by Eli Zimmerman, a salesman. The register will record in amounts not less than 5 cents each up to a total of $100 before resetting. In dimensions it is 2½ inches long and 1¼ wide and a quarter of an inch in thickness.

It is made of aluminum and weighs little. On the face is the register, the first two indicators being for dollars and the third for cents. On the reverse side is the key for registering.

King Edward's Popularity.

Perhaps the essence of King Edward's great popularity is his democratic spirit, his unpretentiousness, writes Sydney Brooks in Harper's Weekly. He reserves ceremony for ceremonial occasions; at other times he is as approachable within, of course, the recognized limits no Englishman would dream of overstepping, as the most radical of his subjects could desire. The people think of him as a "good fellow," a man of the world with tact, experience, kindness and an instinct for saying and doing the right thing at the right moment. This is the popular view of King Edward. It may or may not be the right one; but the fact that ninety-eight out of every hundred people hold it gives the measure of the anxiety and solicitude with which the progress of his illness is being watched.

The Way to Catch a Porcupine.

The porcupine climbs the tree as readily as a squirrel would, provided you don't slip up and cut his tail off while he is going up. Somehow or other he can't climb the tree without his tail, and he won't come down without it. If you catch one of these porcupines climbing a tree and chop his tail off, he will stop right where he is and will stay there until he starves to death unless he is taken away.

Weather.

Fair tonight and Friday. Warmer.

The general public seems to be very well pleased over the selection of Al. J. Smith, of Minneapolis, as assistant United States attorney by C.
C. Houpt.

THE Minneapolis Journal gives the following reason for the refusal of the Little Falls gentleman to accept the democratic nomination for state treasurer: "Joseph L. Meyer, of Little Falls, nominated by the democrats for state treasurer, is said to have fourteen children. No wonder he shied at the nomination and preferred to keep his bird in the hand."

An Unjust Ruling

The Crookston Daily Journal has the following to say regarding the recent ruling of the attorney general's office, mention of which was made in the DISPATCH some days ago:

"The ruling of the attorney general's office that a man may not change his politics until he has served an apprenticeship in the new party with which he proposes to affiliate seems unjust. It has been said that fools are the only people who never alter their minds, and the decision in question seems to be along the lines that bear out that sort of folly.

"There are hundreds and thousands of people throughout the state of Minnesota who have in the years past wandered on, prodigal-like, and fed upon the husks of populism and democracy, who have come to realize the utter failure to these isms to satisfy their longings and desires for good government, and who have decided to return to their former home in the republican party. These would be welcomed and that right cheerfully by the rank and file of the party. They are all good fellows and should be received with open arms as becomes those of a forgiving spirit, where the lapse has been one of the head and not of the heart.

"This, however, is denied to them by the ruling that they can take no part in the primary election held by the republicans if they voted with an opposing party at the last election. This is not the spirit of republicanism. It gained its present impregnable position by formulating a set of principles that commend it to the people, and its leaders have always been willing to acknowledge the fealty of those who have left it in years past, or those who realize that it stands for the best in the way of governmental principals, and wish to aid it in its work.

"The effect of the ruling will be felt severely by the republicans in this part of the state where there are many who would forsake the populist and democratic parties and join the republicans. These men should be allowed to vote at the primaries upon their declaring their intentions to become members of the party.

CHALLENGE HAS BEEN SENT OUT.

Members of Company F Anxious to Get
After the Minneapolis Company
Who Want Game.

A challenge has been sent to the Minneapolis Journal which will be of particular interest to the members of B Company, of Minneapolis, out that paper has not published it as yet. With the challenge there is a $200 certified check which will be posted on Company F in a contest that they desire to pull off with and company, shooting at 100, 200 and 500 yards some time in August. From what the Minneapolis papers have contained they are evidently claiming the high scores at the recent encampments held at Lake City of the three regiments of the state.

For forty years Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been curing summer complaint, dysentery diarrhoea, bloody flux, pain in the stomach, and it has never yet failed to do everything claimed for it.

Market Letter.

The following market letter is furnished by Edwards, Wood & Co., grain commission merchants, 8,
Chamber of Commerce, Minneapolis:

July 23.—Grain markets have remained sensitive to weather influences, but are not much changed from a week ago today. The weather has been on the whole fairly favorable, but storms have done severe damage locally and a great deal of damage has been done by overflowing rivers in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri and more is feared. Heavy rains have also seriously damaged oats in northern Illinois.

One of the conspicuous features of the wheat market is the large premium for July over the deferred futures which is today 9¢ to 11 cents per bushel. Another marked feature is the poor quality of the wheat arriving at market centers. It is believed that there is a considerable short interest in Minneapolis July wheat, and as practically no deliveries have been made so far this month, and as there are only seven days in which deliveries can be made, there may be some excitement in this option.

The movement to the market centers is increasing, but receipts are of poor quality which does not help shorts. Out of 435 cars received at Chicago yesterday only nine cars, or about 2 per cent graded contract.
Interior millers and elevators are taking the good wheat, and only the poor quality reaches market centers.
It is said by some experts that the poor quality of wheat compels it's early marketing and that the present free movement will not be long maintained. The export movement is called disappointing, but every dip in prices brings about good sales for export.

PITTSBURGH MURDER MYSTERY.

Woman Killed in a Hotel and the Criminal Escapes.

Pittsburg, July 24.—One of the most mysterious murders in the city's history was committed in a drinking room in the rear of the Traction hotel.
The victim is Agnes King of 139 Crawford street. The murderer, who escaped, is unknown. The story is that the woman and man had been drinking together since Monday at the different saloons in the neighborhood and the carousal ended in a quarrel during the afternoon, which was renewed at night when the couple met on High street. The woman went into the hotel bar and took a seat in the rear room. The man followed her and asked her if she would "keep up the bluff." This question was repeated three times and each time answered in the negative. Quick as a flash the man pulled a dirk and made a lunge at the woman, cutting her under the ear. A second slash severed the jugular. The murderer stepped out a side door and escaped. At midnight he was still at large. The victim died while in the patrol wagon on the way to a hospital.

The only witness of the murder was a woman who happened to be in the room when the couple entered. She says the whole affair was enacted so quickly she can give no description of the murderer.

After the murder of Deputy Flanders Jeffcoat escaped into the Ogeechee river swamps. He was next heard of in Aiken, S. C., a few days ago.
Deputy Sheriff Ahle located him and with a posse went to arrest him. As the party rode up to the house, where Jeffcoat was stopping he opened fire and killed Ahle. Jeffcoat then escaped into the woods. Sheriff Alderman with a large posse and hounds is in pursuit.

ed her, causing her death, and then cream into which he had poured a bottle of strychnine.

an was shot through the left breast,
the bullet going through her body.
She will die. The baby was shot riously injured.

that he had no idea who his murderer could be.

Market Letter.

The following market letter is furnished by Edwards, Wood & Co., grain commission merchants, 8, Chamber of Commerce, Minneapolis:

July 23.—Grain markets have remained sensitive to weather influences, but are not much changed from a week ago today. The weather has been on the whole fairly favorable, but storms have done severe damage locally and a great deal of damage has been done by overflowing rivers in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri and more is feared. Heavy rains have also seriously damaged oats in northern Illinois.

One of the conspicuous features of the wheat market is the large premium for July over the deferred futures which is today 9 1/2 to 11 cents per bushel. Another marked feature is the poor quality of the wheat arriving at market centers. It is believed that there is a considerable short interest in Minneapolis July wheat, and as practically no deliveries have been made so far this month, and as there are only seven days in which deliveries can be made, there may be some excitement in this option.

The movement to the market centers is increasing, but receipts are of poor quality which does not help shorts. Out of 435 cars received at Chicago yesterday only nine cars, or about 2 per cent graded contract. Interior millers and elevators are taking the good wheat, and only the poor quality reaches market centers. It is said by some experts that the poor quality of wheat compels it's early marketing and that the present free movement will not be long maintained. The export movement is called disappointing, but every dip in prices brings about good sales for export.

PITTSBURG MURDER MYSTERY.

Woman Killed in a Hotel and the Criminal Escapes.

Pittsburg, July 24.—One of the most mysterious murders in the city's history was committed in a drinking room in the rear of the Traction hotel. The victim is Agnes King of 139 Crawford street. The murderer, who escaped, is unknown. The story is that the woman and man had been drinking together since Monday at the different saloons in the neighborhood and the carousal ended in a quarrel during the afternoon, which was renewed at night when the couple met on High street. The woman went into the hotel bar and took a seat in the rear room. The man followed her and asked her if she would "keep up the bluff." This question was repeated three times and each time answered in the negative. Quick as a flash the man pulled a dirk and made a lunge at the woman, cutting her under the ear. A second slash severed the jugular. The murderer stepped out a side door and escaped. At midnight he was still at large. The victim died while in the patrol wagon on the way to a hospital.

The only witness of the murder was a woman who happened to be in the room when the couple entered. She says the whole affair was enacted so quickly she can give no description of the murderer.

A CRACKING GOOD GAME OF BASE BALL

Fast Waseca Team Find Foes Worthy of Their Steel in Brainerd Team.

THE PLAYING FAST AND FURIOUS

Dr. Watkins Pitched a Marvelous Game and "Budd" Flynn Distinguished Himself.

Brainerd 1; Waseca 2.

Brainerd again last night went up against the invincible Waseca base ball team and was beaten out by one run, the final score being 2 to 1. It was a cinch that Waseca would play a great game when Wilson donned his suit and went in to do the twirling, but even at that with all his wonderful maneuvers he did not pitch an iota of a better game than Dr. Watkins, who was the slab artist for the locals. The local boys played almost an errorless game and the showing they made against the bunch from down the line is certainly a credit to them. They were weak with the stick against Wilson and the hitting column does not show up big, and it was evident too that with a few good liners Brainerd would have won out. The score would have been a tie, as Brainerd certainly got a little the worst of a decision on a ball that went over the east fence. This hit would have meant another score.

There was one of the best crowds of the season out to see the game and everyone was satisfied that they got their money's worth. It was a good clean game throughout. But one error was made by Brainerd and the game lasted but an hour and twenty minutes. Dr. Watkins struck out thirteen of the heavy Waseca sluggers and Wilson sent fifteen of the Brainerdites in this direction. But one base on balls was secured off Watkins and two walked to first on Wilson.

It is said that Wilson was in his very best form in the game last night. He admitted it himself to several standing in front of the City Hotel last night. He is a phenomenal pitcher, and a Brainerd crowd, while they would have liked to see their home team win, were glad to have the opportunity to see him pitch.

Waseca was the first to bat and Holland opened up with a home run. It would never have been a homer if the fielder had more room. It just dropped over the fence and that was all. The doctor went after the next two, Smith and Wilson, beautiful sluggers, and they fanned the air. Mackey bumped one out to Spellicy and he was thrown out to Williams at first. Brainerd up also took one score in the first by the superior base running of Flynn. He drove a liner out to Kolar at short and beat it out, stole second and third and took a desperate chance for home, which he made good, Ostlick throwing the ball wild to third and it went pumped, bump up against the fence. Spellicy up flew out to Wilson, Howe struck out and Englebertson flew out to Hallie in deep center.

In the first of the second Foster up for Waseca singled, but was caught stealing second. Kolar struck out a grounder to Williams at first. For Brainerd Watkins up walked, but Williams, Hall and Kinder struck out, and he died on first base.

In the third Ostlick, for Waseca, singled, but Hallie went out from Kinder to Williams at first. Holland up drove one way out to the left garden and it was muffed by Howe, and Ostlick, who had stolen third, crossed the rubber. Had Howe got under and gathered this fly in the score would have been one to one at the end of the game, as neither team scored after this. Holland was thrown out from Howe to Flynn at second. The next man up for Waseca, Smith, struck out, retiring the side. For Brainerd Murphy struck out, Flynn got his base on balls, but was out from Wilson to Minor and Spellicy struck out, retiring the side.

From the third inning on the slab artists for both teams got down to business and it was a pitchers battle royal, neither side scoring. It was fast ball, and the batters up went out in one, two, three order.

In the fourth inning Wilson, Mackey and Foster for Waseca slammed away at the doctor's curves and each stepped back to the bench. Howe up for Brainerd went out from Minor to Foster at first. Englebertson struck out and Watkins went out front Wilson to Foster at first.

In the fifth Kolar for Waseca tried to make first, but he was gathered to his fathers by being thrown out from Flynn to Williams at first. Minor flew out to Flynn, Ostlick got a two bagger, but it did not net him anything as Hallie struck out leaving him to die on second. Williams and Hall struck out and Kinder flew out to Mackey, retiring the side.

In the sixth there was nothing doing Holland up went out from Spellicy to Williams, Smith singled, but died on second, as Wilson flew out to Spellicy and Mackey flew out to Flynn. For Brainerd Murphy struck out, Flynn went out from Wilson to Foster and Spellicy flew out to Foster at first, retiring the side.

In the seventh Foster up for Waseca struck out, Kolar struck out and Minor went out from Watkins to Williams at first. For Brainerd Howe went out from Wilson to Foster at first, Englebertson struck out, Watkins drew a base on balls, but died on first, Williams up striking out and retiring the side.

There was nothing doing in the eighth although Ostlick the first man up for Waseca drew first on balls. Hallie sacrificed being thrown out at first from Watkins to Williams Ostlick passing to second, Holland flew out to Murphy in center and Smith flew out to Kinder. For Brainerd Hall, Kinder and Murphy struck out, retiring the side.

There were hopes that in the final windup Brainerd might score but fate was against them. In the ninth Waseca was easily retired Wilson flying out to Howe and Mackey and Foster striking out. Flynn up for Brainerd went out from Wilson to Foster at first, Spellicy struck out and Howe went out from Mackey to Foster at first, and the stuff was off. Final score 2 to 1.

Interesting Statement.

State Auditor Dunn has received from the insurance commissioner a statement of the half of the 2 per cent state tax on premiums paid for insurance in the various cities and villages of the state, which, under the state law, goes to five department relief associations where such exist.

When no fire department relief exists, the amount goes to the city or village for the support of the fire department.

The relief association to obtain the 1 per cent of the insurance premiums paid in the city or village, has only to make an annual report of its receipts and disbursements to the state auditor.

Only eighteen associations have made such reports, although the fire departments of 217 cities and villages receive their 1 per cent of the insurance premiums.

State Auditor Dunn believes that there are many relief associations in the state which have not made any report, and is endeavoring to ascertain where they are located in order to let them get the benefit of the half of the 2 per cent state tax.

The statement of the insurance commissioner, shows that $3,961,569 was paid in insurance premiums in the cities and villages of the state during the past year. Taxes are also levied on Wisconsin, Ohio and Michigan companies of which the relief associations get their proportion, making the total amount to be distributed among the relief associations and the cities and villages which do not have relief associations, $41,958.58.

SLEEPING HEROES

Mighty Men of the Past That Are Expected to Return.

Is there any race that has not its sleeping hero? A correspondent recently pointed out that the time for the fulfillment of the prophecy that the tenth of Krishna will restore to India her independence is near at hand, and every nation has some such savior to whom the people look. West country rustics still believe that Arthur did not die, but sleeps in Avalon, and that in the hour of Britain's need he will awake, deliver the land and restore the golden age. In Germany it is a popular belief that Charles V. will some day wake from his enchanted sleep to reign over Germany, Spain, Portugal, Denmark, Belgium and Holland. Thousands of French peasants hold that Napoleon is only sleeping and that at some future time he will reappear and rule. And Mr. Newbolt has enshrined the Devon legend that Drake is only listening for the drum.

The Irish peasantry steadfastly refuse to believe that Mr. Parnell is really dead. They assert that his death was a ruse, that he was an interested spectator of his own funeral and that when the time comes he will emerge from retirement to give Ireland her independence. Every true Moslem believes that when antichrist appears Mohammed Mohadi will awake and conquer him. A Moorish legend declares that Bobadil el Chico sleeps spellbound near the Alhambra and that one day he will awake to re-establish the Moors as rulers of Granada. The Servians look to King Lager, slain by the Turks in 1299, as their final hope, and should Switzerland be again threatened by tyrants Swiss folklore declares that the three members of the Tell family who are sleeping at Rutli, near the Vierwald-Staten-See, will rise from their enchanted slumber and maintain the freedom of the land.—London Chronicle.

FUTURE OF THE BOERS

General De Villiers Tells of the Outlook For His People.

WILL BE FAITHFUL TO NEW RULE.

Country North of the Transvaal to Be Subdued—Work to Be Done Quietly and Faithfully—Devotion of the Boer Women—Prose and Poetic Literature of the War.

Before sailing for South Africa one of the younger Boer leaders, J. de Villiers, formerly attorney general of the Orange Free State and a scarred fighter, who was a prisoner in Bermuda, spoke recently at the Union Square hotel in New York of the devotion of the Boer soldiers.

"It is the only manful thing to accept facts as we find them now," General de Villiers said to a reporter of the New York Commercial Advertiser, "and that we have done, but it has required almost greater courage than for the fiercest charge on the battlefield. My one consolation now, and indeed all through the weary struggle, has been the thought that, while many high in rank were found wanting in the hour of need, there were many more, even in the lowest ranks, who were ready for any trial and unafraid. Their devotion has been the sustaining power through the long three years. Never were the women of a distressed country more devoted, not only in the tender sympathy and support so natural to them, but in rougher and more active service. When the war broke out, the Boer women were not only sewing and stitching, but plowing and tilling the farms as well. There is many an instance of a wife sending back to the ranks her discouraged and deserting husband a better and braver man. Others I have known who, rather than let their cattle fall into the hands of the enemy, have followed the army for days—like the Roman matron, you say, who dispatched her sons to the battlefield with this farewell: 'Return with your shields or upon them.' Yes, that is quite true.

"Now, of course, we are bound for our homes, such as they are, to do our share in the advancement of South Africa. There is a great land north of the Transvaal still to be subdued, and the portion of the labor that falls to us will be quietly and faithfully done. The term 'Boer' itself means 'tiller of the soil,' but Olive Schreiner well distinguishes between our two main types. 'If a Boer knows but Dutch, he is a Boer; if two languages, he is South African.' There are many of this latter class among us, and they are well able to take up work in any line of science or industry.

"Like your fathers in the days of 1776, we had but an untrained body of men, but in this age of telegraph and cable and machine gun it is still more difficult for a raw army to win than in former centuries. But we have fought our fight, and is it not the highest thing in the world to be so loyal to a cause, whether it be right or wrong, that it is a joy to give your life for it? I am sure it is.

"There may be quite a Boer literature of this war, for there are many men who can give able accounts of the struggle, and will. One literary clergyman in South Africa I know who has his history almost complete. We have several rhymsters too. One in our own body of prisoners has written many stirring war songs. The Boer is a very docile fellow, you know, and very manageable if you understand him, but he is a very feeling man, even if he is not always so very demonstrative. You have heard how my comrades received the news of peace—by singing the One Hundred and forty-sixth psalm. It was no vain thing either; it was heartfelt and pathetic to see the scores of fighters in prison walls cheerful and resigned no matter what their fate. Every morning and evening throughout the war at sunrise and sunset we have held prayers and chanted some song or psalm as did Cromwell's army on Marston Moor or Dumbarton. It may not appeal to foreigners, but it always has to me, the war hymn, plaintive in itself, but made sonorous and tremendous when many thousand throats lift it to the skies. And now all is over. But we have fought a good fight and are content. We have remained faithful to our old government to the end and mean to remain faithful to the new."

Told of England's New Premier.

A few years ago Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, who has just succeeded to the premiership of Great Britain on the retirement of his uncle, Lord Salisbury, had some of his prominent supporters from his Scotch constituency as guests at a political banquet in London. Desirous that they should enjoy themselves to the utmost, he directed that they be kept supplied with the finest of champagne. In the course of the evening he visited them and hoped that they were well served.

"Well," was the response, "for the food we had no call to complain, but we must say we're a bit fed up of these meoperal waters."—New York Times.

Negroes Flooding to Philadelphia.

The increase in the colored population of Philadelphia within recent years is a fact too conspicuous to escape attention, says the Philadelphia Times. While the native population of African descent, which was always an element of some importance, has probably kept pace with the natural ratio of growth, it has lately been quite subordinated by the migration of negroes from the south, and at the present time this movement appears to be more pronounced than ever before.

A CRACKING GOOD GAME OF BASE BALL

Fast Waseca Team Find Foes Worthy of Their Steel in Brainerd Team.

THE PLAYING FAST AND FURIOUS

Dr. Watkins Pitched a Marvelous Game and "Budd" Flynn Distinguished Himself.

Brainerd 1; Waseca 2.

Brainerd again last night went up against the invincible Waseca base ball team and was beaten out by one run, the final score being 2 to 1. It was a cinch that Waseca would play a great game when Wilson donned his suit and went in to do the twirling, but even at that with all his wonderful maneuvers he did not pitch an iota of a better game than Dr. Watkins, who was the slab artist for the locals. The local boys played almost an errorless game and the showing they made against the bunch from down the line is certainly a credit to them. They were weak with the stick against Wilson and the hitting column does not show up big, and it was evident too that with a few good liners Brainerd would have won out. The score would have been a tie, as Brainerd certainly got a little the worst of a decision on a ball that went over the east fence. This hit would have meant another score.

There was one of the best crowds of the season out to see the game and everyone was satisfied that they got their money's worth. It was a good clean game throughout. But one error was made by Brainerd and the game lasted but an hour and twenty minutes. Dr. Watkins struck out thirteen of the heavy Waseca sluggers and Wilson sent fifteen of the Brainerdites in this direction. But one base on balls was secured off Watkins and two walked to first on Wilson.

It is said that Wilson was in his very best form in the game last night. He admitted it himself to several standing in front of the City Hotel last night. He is a phenomenal pitcher, and a Brainerd crowd, while they would have liked to see their home team win, were glad to have the opportunity to see him pitch.

Waseca was the first to bat and Holland opened up with a home run. It would never have been a homer if the fielder had more room. It just dropped over the fence and that was all. The doctor went after the next two, Smith and Wilson, beautiful sluggers, and they fanned the air. Mackey bumped one out to Spellicy and he was thrown out to Williams at first. Brainerd up also took one score in the first by the superior base running of Flynn. He drove a liner out to Kolar at short and beat it out, stole second and third and took a desperate chance for home, which he made good, Ostidick throwing the ball wild to third and it went pumpedee, bump up against the fence. Spellicy up flied out to Wilson, Howe struck out and Englebreton flied out to Hallie in deep center.

In the first of the second Foster up for Waseca singled, but was caught stealing second. Kolar struck out a grounder to Williams at first. For Brainerd Watkins up walked, but Williams, Hall and Kinder struck out, and he died on first base.

In the third Ostidick, for Waseca, singled, but Hallie went out from Kinder to Williams at first. Holland up drove one way out to the left garden and it was muffed by Howe, and Ostidick, who had stolen third, crossed the rubber. Had Howe got under and gathered this fly in the score would have been one to one at the end of the game, as neither team scored after this. Holland was thrown out from Howe to Flynn at second. The next man up for Waseca, Smith, struck out, retiring the side. For Brainerd Murphy struck out, Flynn got his base on balls, but was out from Wilson to Minor and Spellicy struck out, retiring the side.

From the third inning on the slab artists for both teams got down to business and it was a pitchers battle royal, neither side scoring. It was fast ball, and the batters up went out in one, two, three order.

In the fourth inning Wilson, Mackey and Foster for Waseca slammed away at the doctor's curves and each stepped back to the bench. Howe up for Brainerd went out from Minor to Foster at first, Englebreton struck out and Watkins went out front Wilson to Foster at first.

In the fifth Kolar for Waseca tried to make first, but he was gathered to his fathers by being thrown out from Flynn to Williams at first. Minor flied out to Flynn, Ostidick got a two bagger, but it did not net him anything as Hallie struck out leaving him to die on second. Williams and Hall struck out and Kinder flied out to Mackey, retiring the side.

In the sixth there was nothing doing Holland up went out from Spellicy to Williams, Smith singled, but died on second, as Wilson flied out to Spellicy and Mackey flied out to Flynn. For Brainerd Murphy struck out, Flynn went out from Wilson to Foster and Spellicy flied out to Foster at first, retiring the side.

In the seventh Foster up for Waseca struck out, Kolar struck out and Minor went out from Watkins to Williams at first. For Brainerd Howe went out from Wilson to Foster at first, Englebreton struck out, Watkins drew a base on balls, but died on first, Williams up striking out and retiring the side.

There was nothing doing in the eighth although Ostidick the first man up for Waseca drew first on balls. Hallie sacrificed being thrown out at first from Watkins to Williams Ostidick passing to second, Holland flied out to Murphy in center and Smith flied out to Kinder. For Brainerd Hall, Kinder and Murphy struck out, retiring the side.

There were hopes that in the final windup Brainerd might score but fate was against them. In the ninth Waseca was easily retired Wilson flied out to Howe and Mackey and Foster striking out. Flynn up for Brainerd went out from Wilson to Foster at first, Spellicy struck out and Howe went out from Mackey to Foster at first, and the stuff was off. Final score 2 to 1.

Interesting Statement.

State Auditor Dunn has received from the insurance commissioner a statement of the half of the 2 per cent state tax on premiums paid for insurance in the various cities and villages of the state, which, under the state law, goes to five department relief associations where such exist.

When no fire department relief exists, the amount goes to the city or village for the support of the fire department.

The relief association to obtain the 1 per cent of the insurance premiums paid in the city or village, has only to make an annual report of its receipts and disbursements to the state auditor.

Only eighteen associations have made such reports, although the fire departments of 217 cities and villages receive their 1 per cent of the insurance premiums.

State Auditor Dunn believes that there are many relief associations in the state which have not made any report, and is endeavoring to ascertain where they are located in order to let them get the benefit of the half of the 2 per cent state tax.

The statement of the insurance commissioner, shows that $3,961,569 was paid in insurance premiums in the cities and villages of the state during the past year. Taxes are also levied on Wisconsin, Ohio and Michigan companies of which the relief associations get there proportion, making the total amount to be distributed among the relief associations and the cities and villages which do not have relief associations, $41,958.58.

SLEEPING HEROES

Mighty Men of the Past That Are Expected to Return.

Is there any race that has not its sleeping hero? A correspondent recently pointed out that the time for the fulfillment of the prophecy that the tenth of Krishna will restore to India her independence is near at hand, and every nation has some such savior to whom the people look. West country rustics still believe that Arthur did not die, but sleeps in Avalon, and that in the hour of Britain's need he will awake, deliver the land and restore the golden age. In Germany it is a popular belief that Charles V. will some day wake from his enchanted sleep to reign over Germany, Spain, Portugal, Denmark, Belgium and Holland. Thousands of French peasants hold that Napoleon is only sleeping and that at some future time he will reappear and rule. And Mr. Newbolt has enshrined the Devon legend that Drake is only listening for the drum.

The Irish peasantry steadfastly refuse to believe that Mr. Parnell is really dead. They assert that his death was a ruse, that he was an interested spectator of his own funeral and that when the time comes he will emerge from retirement to give Ireland her independence. Every true Moslem believes that when antichrist appears Mohammed Mohadi will awake and conquer him. A Moorish legend declares that Bobadil el Chico sleeps spellbound near the Alhambra and that one day he will awake to re-establish the Moors as rulers of Granada. The Servians look to King Lager, slain by the Turks in 1389, as their final hope, and should Switzerland be again threatened by tyrants Swiss folklore declares that the three members of the Tell family who are sleeping at Rutli, near the Vierwald-Staten-See, will rise from their enchanted slumber and maintain the freedom of the land.—London Chronicle.

FUTURE OF THE BOERS

General De Villiers Tells of the Outlook For His People.

WILL BE FAITHFUL TO NEW RULE.

Country North of the Transvaal to Be Subdued—Work to Be Done Quietly and Faithfully—Devotion of the Boer Women—Prose and Poetic Literature of the War.

Before sailing for South Africa one of the younger Boer leaders, J. de Villiers, formerly attorney general of the Orange Free State and a scarred fighter, who was a prisoner in Bernauda, spoke recently at the Union Square hotel in New York of the devotion of the Boer soldiers.

"It is the only manful thing to accept facts as we find them now," General de Villiers said to a reporter of the New York Commercial Advertiser, "and that we have done, but it has required almost greater courage than for the fiercest charge on the battlefield. My one consolation now, and indeed all through the weary struggle, has been the thought that, while many high in rank were found wanting in the hour of need, there were many more, even in the lowest ranks, who were ready for any trial and unafraid. Their devotion has been the sustaining power through the long three years. Never were the women of a distressed country more devoted, not only in the tender sympathy and support so natural to them, but in rougher and more active service. When the war broke out, the Boer women were not only sewing and stitching, but plowing and tilling the farms as well. There is many an instance of a wife sending back to the ranks her discouraged and deserting husband a better and braver man. Others I have known who, rather than let their cattle fall into the hands of the enemy, have followed the army for days—like the Roman matron, you say, who dispatched her sons to the battlefield with this farewell: 'Return with your shields or upon them.' Yes, that is quite true.

"Now, of course, we are bound for our homes, such as they are, to do our share in the advancement of South Africa. There is a great land north of the Transvaal still to be subdued, and the portion of the labor that falls to us will be quietly and faithfully done. The term 'Boer' itself means 'tiller of the soil,' but Olive Schreiner well distinguishes between our two main types. 'If a Boer knows but Dutch, he is a Boer; if two languages, he is South African.' There are many of this latter class among us, and they are well able to take up work in any line of science or industry.

"Like your fathers in the days of 1776, we had but an untrained body of men, but in this age of telegraph and cable and machine gun it is still more difficult for a raw army to win than in former centuries. But we have fought our fight, and is it not the highest thing in the world to be so loyal to a cause, whether it be right or wrong, that it is a joy to give your life for it? I am sure it is.

"There may be quite a Boer literature of this war, for there are many men who can give able accounts of the struggle, and will. One literary clergyman in South Africa I know who has his history almost complete. We have several rhymsters too. One in our own body of prisoners has written many stirring war songs. The Boer is a very docile fellow, you know, and very manageable if you understand him, but he is a very feeling man, even if not always so very demonstrative. You have heard how my comrades received the news of peace—by singing the One Hundred and forty-sixth psalm. It was no vain thing either; it was heartfelt and pathetic to see the scores of fighters in prison walls cheerful and resigned no matter what their fate. Every morning and evening throughout the war at sunrise and sunset we have held prayers and chanted some song or psalm as did Cromwell's army on Marston Moor or Dumbarton. It may not appeal to foreigners, but it always has to me, the war hymn, plaintive in itself, but made sonorous and tremendous when many thousand throats lift it to the skies. And now all is over. But we have fought a good fight and are content. We have remained faithful to our old government to the end and mean to remain faithful to the new."

Told of England's New Premier.

A few years ago Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, who has just succeeded to the premiership of Great Britain on the retirement of his uncle, Lord Salisbury, had some of his prominent supporters from his Scotch constituency as guests at a political banquet in London. Desirous that they should enjoy themselves to the utmost, he directed that they be kept supplied with the finest of champagne. In the course of the evening he visited them and hoped that they were well served.

"Well," was the response, "for the food we had no call to complain, but we must say we're a bit fagged of these meenal waters."—New York Times.

Negroes Flocking to Philadelphia.

The increase in the colored population of Philadelphia within recent years is a fact too conspicuous to escape attention, says the Philadelphia Times. While the native population of African descent, which was always an element of some importance, has probably kept pace with the natural ratio of growth, it has lately been quite subordinated by the migration of negroes from the south, and at the present time this movement appears to be more pronounced than ever before.

FRANCE IS DISTURBED

DEMONSTRATIONS AGAINST THE
CLOSING OF SOME SCHOOLS
BEING HELD.

RIOTS ARE NOT SERIOUS

A Few Trifling Collisions Between the
Opposing Factions Occur in Paris.
Peasants Gather in the Clerical
Stronghold of Brittany and Declare
They Will Not Allow Schools Closed
and the Nuns Expelled.

Paris, July 24.—The agitation provoked by the order of Prime Minister Combes to close the congregational schools recalls to some extent the scenes enacted when M. Ferry, then premier, expelled the Jesuits in 1880. Demonstrations in favor of the nuns and the teaching friars are taking place in Paris and many places in the provinces, where the prefects presented themselves at the schools and ordered that the institutions be closed. Up to the present, however, no serious incident has been recorded.

The Nationalists have joined the Clericals in engineering the agitation, and their leaders are in the forefront of the effectiveness in Paris. Considerable sympathy has been worked up on behalf of the nuns, and their schools have been made the particular objects of demonstrations. The Clericals called upon their sympathizers to meet outside of the school conducted by the sisters of St. Vincent de Paul, in the northeast quarter of Paris, which was closed during the afternoon, and a considerable crowd gathered there, compelling a large force of police and mounted municipal guards to form a cordon in the streets leading to the school. A few trifling collisions occurred between the Clericals and counter demonstrators. A Nationalist member of the chamber of deputies was arrested while trying to force his way through the police cordon, but was subsequently released. An Anti-Clerical meeting in the Latin quarter led to some effervescence, but no noteworthy disorder. A few students, followed by a crowd composed of the rougher element, marched up and down the boulevard St. Michel till a late hour, chanting anti-Clerical refrains and shouting "Down with the priests and the pope!" But these fled at the sight of the mounted guards and patrols.

The greatest excitement in the provinces is displayed in the Clerical stronghold of Brittany, where the

Peasants Have Gathered

In front of the nuns' schools in several places and declare they will not allow the nuns to be expelled. For instance, at Landerneau, a crowd of farmers have mounted guards before the school of White Sisters awaiting the arrival of the police. The inhabitants of the village of Ploudaniel, who are guarding the sisters' school, seized a lay schoolmaster and thrashed him with nettles. At La Bresse, in the department of Vosges, the commissary of police, accompanied by gendarmes, thrice tried to approach the congregational school in order to effect its closure, but was obliged to abandon the attempt because of the threatening attitude of the population. At St. Ambroix, near Nîmes, the demonstrators detached the horses from the carriages which were conveying the sisters to the railway station, and dragged the vehicles, with their occupants, back to the convent, shouting "Down with the tyrants!" The gendarmes were powerless to prevent the demonstrators from carrying out their plans, and reinforcements had to be summoned.

Against these and similar incidents, however, must be set off the addresses in support of the government voted by many municipal councils.

While considerable sympathy is felt with the sisters personally, Prime Minister Combes undoubtedly feels that he is supported by the mass of the country and is not likely to recede from the position he has taken up. The trouble is caused mainly by the ambiguity of the wording of the law of associations, which has led branches of the congregations, such as the schools now closed, to suppose that their position was legalized by the request for authorization made by headquarters. This was even the interpretation of the matter accepted by M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the former premier, but Prime Minister Combes takes a contrary view.

CONFIDENT OF IOWA.

Congressman Hepburn Says the State
Will Endorse Roosevelt.

New York, July 24.—Representative W. P. Hepburn of Iowa, who has been a visitor at President Roosevelt's home in Oyster Bay, said:

"I have been away from home so much that I am not fully in touch with Republican plans, but I am confident that our next state convention will heartily endorse President Roosevelt's administration.

"I know nothing of any plan to present Congressman Littlefield's name to succeed Speaker Henderson in the next house. I am confident that General Henderson will be chosen again for the speakership."

HYPNOTIZER IN CUSTODY.

He Had Influenced a Girl to Elope and Marry Him.

Mattoon, Ill., July 24.—Jackson D. Hill, who Miss Lucy Bush of this city says hypnotized her into eloping to Charleston and marrying him against her will, and deserting her four days later, has been captured at Smithland, Ky., by Sheriff Byers of this county. He is now in jail at Charleston. Hill had a wife in Delevan when he married Miss Bush, and was living with wife No. 3 when arrested.

FIRST GREAT RESERVOIR.

Land Set Aside for Irrigation Purposes in Colorado and Nebraska.

Sterling, Colo., July 24.—Telegraphic orders have been received by the local United States land office from the interior department at Washington withdrawing 899 townships, embracing 900,000 acres of land, located in Weld, Logan and Sedgewick counties, Colorado, and Cheyenne county, Nebraska, from public entry. This land is located on the north side of the South Platte river. It is believed that Chief Hydrographer Newell has recommended to the interior department that this land be set aside for the first great national reservoir under the new irrigation law. The preliminary survey will begin at once. If this survey is finally approved by Washington the building of the reservoir by the government will soon be begun.

Will Expend Four Million.

Baltimore, Md., July 24.—It is estimated at Baltimore and Ohio headquarters that the Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Toledo railroad, between New-castle Junction, Pa., and Akron, O., will be practically rebuilt at a cost of $4,000,000. The road will be straightened and the heavy grades reduced to a maximum of nineteen feet to the mile.

Cuban Congress Discussing a Loan.

Havana, July 24.—The matter of a loan still absorbs the attention of both houses of congress. The lower house takes the position that it will not vote the small loan of $4,000,000 which has been proposed, except as a part of a larger loan of $35,000,000 to be used in paying the Cuban army.

THE PASSING OF NOVELS

A Remarkable Prophecy by Jules Verne.

NEWSPAPERS TO SUPPLANT FICTION

Popular Author Thinks That the Day of Novels is All but Ended.
Psychology of the World, He Claims, Will Be Crystallized in the Modern Daily Paper.

I had not M. Jules Verne's address when I arrived at Amlens station, but I soon found that it was quite unnecessary, for everybody knew "M. Jules," as his fellow townsmen call the veteran author, writes a correspondent of the London Mail. I found him at his club, and it will interest English admirers of the man to know that in appearance he is exactly what the author of his books should be.

Of middle height, white haired and ruddy faced, Jules Verne looks like a sea captain who is spending the autumn of a well filled life on shore. Although seventy-four years old, suffering from cataract and lame in one leg (he was shot in the foot by a madman some years ago), the old gentleman is hearty in manner and brightly interested in all the world's doings. He met me with an expression of great interest in the phenomenal circulation of the number of the Mail issued immediately after the king's operation, about which he had just been reading, and for a few moments I found it very difficult to draw him on to talk about himself, for he prefers getting information to supplying it.

"I really would much rather interview you than be interviewed," he said. "Yes, I suppose I may consider my life's work as nearly finished. I am at work now on my hundredth volume, and in the nature of things I doubt whether I shall ever write another. In fact, my feeble eyesight prevents me from doing more than a page or two of it a day just now if I want to keep up with the world's news as well. Only eighty-four of my hundred volumes have been published so far, and they will continue to appear at six monthly intervals, so that, of course, ten or twelve of them are very likely to be posthumous. I work extremely quick when I am in health, and if the operation for cataract which I must shortly undergo restores my eyesight for me, as the doctor hopes it will, I may after all go on into my second century of volumes, for I am quite untired, and work, either at my books or at the municipal business of Amlens, is my chief recreation.

Jules Verne leaned forward and drummed gently on the table. "I do not think there will be any novels or romances, at all events in volume form, in fifty or a hundred years from now," he said. And the old gentleman laughed at my surprise.

"No; I do not think there will be any novels. They will be supplanted altogether by the daily newspaper, which has already now taken such a grip of the lives of the progressive nations." "But the romance," I said, "the novel, the descriptive story, the story historic and the story psychological?" "They will all disappear," said M. Verne. "They are not necessary, and even now their merit and their interest are fast declining. As historic records the world will file its newspapers. Newspaper writers have learned to color everyday events so well that to read them will give posterity a truer picture than the historic or descriptive novel could do, and as for the novel psychological, that will soon cease to be and will die of extinction in your own lifetime."

Here M. Jules Verne got excited. "I am second to no living man," he cried, "in my admiration of the greatest psychologist the world has ever known, Guy de Maupassant, and he, like all true geniuses, foresaw the trend of human ideas and deeds and wrote his stories in the smallest possible compass. Each one of De Maupassant's soul studies is a concentrated lozenge of psychology.

"The De Maupassants who will delight the world in years to come will do so in the newspapers of the day and not in volumes, and they will, as you newspaper men express it, crystallize the psychology of the world in which they live by 'writing up' the day to day events. The real psychology of life is in its news, and more truth—Truth with a big T—can be gathered from the police court story, the railway accident, from the everyday doings of the crowd and from the battles of the future than can be obtained if an attempt is made to clothe the psychological moral in a garb of fiction."

"You mention battles. You do not think, then, that in the fullness of time all war must cease?" "No, I do not think so. Nature will always sway the world, and it is man's nature to fight for supremacy, no matter how deadly the conflict may become."

A Roman Dinner.

A Roman dinner at the house of a wealthy man consisted chiefly of three courses. All sorts of stimulants to the appetite were first served up, and eggs were indispensable to the first course. Among the various dishes we may instance the guinea hen, pheasant, nightingale and the thrush as birds most in repute. The Roman gourmards held peacocks in great estimation, especially their tongues. Macrobius states that they were first eaten by Hortensius, the orator, and acquired such repute that a single peacock was sold for 50 denarii, the denarius being equal to about eightpence halfpenny of our money.—Chambers' Journal.

No Need of Assistance.

The father of the family had stepped into a bookstore to buy a birthday present for his fourteen-year-old son. "What kind of book would you like?" asked the salesman to whom he had confided his purpose.

"Something that would be useful for the boy," was his reply.

"Well, here is a very good one on 'Self Help.'"

"Self help!" exclaimed the father. "Ben don't need anything of that kind. You'd ought to see him at the dinner table!"

DEMONSTRATIONS AGAINST THE
CLOSING OF SOME SCHOOLS
BEING HELD.

RIOTS ARE NOT SERIOUS

A Few Trifling Collisions Between the
Opposing Factions Occur in Paris.
Peasants Gather in the Clerical
Stronghold of Brittany and Declare
They Will Not Allow Schools Closed
and the Nuns Expelled.

Paris, July 24.—The agitation provoked by the order of Prime Minister Combes to close the congregationist schools recalls to some extent the scenes enacted when M. Ferry, then premier, expelled the Jesuits in 1880. Demonstrations in favor of the nuns and the teaching friars are taking place in Paris and many places in the provinces, where the prefects presented themselves at the schools and ordered that the institutions be closed. Up to the present, however, no serious incident has been recorded.

The Nationalists have joined the Clericals in engineering the agitation, and their leaders are in the forefront of the effervescence in Paris. Considerable sympathy has been worked up on behalf of the nuns, and their schools have been made the particular objects of demonstrations. The Clericals called upon their sympathizers to meet outside of the school conducted by the sisters of St. Vincent de Paul, in the northeast quarter of Paris, which was closed during the afternoon, and a considerable crowd gathered there, compelling a large force of police and mounted municipal guards to form a cordon in the streets leading to the school. A few trifling collisions occurred between the Clericals and counter demonstrators. A Nationalist member of the chamber of deputies was arrested while trying to force his way through the police cordon, but was subsequently released. An Anti-Clerical meeting in the Latin quarter led to some effervescence, but no noteworthy disorder. A few students, followed by a crowd composed of the rougher element, marched up and down the boulevard St. Michel till a late hour, chanting anti-Clerical refrains and shouting "Down with the priests and the pope!" But these fled at the sight of the mounted guards and patrols.

Peasants Have Gathered
In front of the nuns' schools in several places and declare they will not allow the nuns to be expelled. For instance, at Landerneau, a crowd of farmers have mounted guards before the school of White Sisters awaiting the arrival of the police. The inhabitants of the village of Ploudaniel, who are guarding the sisters' school, seized a lay schoolmaster and thrashed him with nettles. At La Bresse, in the department of Vosges, the commissary of police, accompanied by gendarmes, thrice tried to approach the congregationist school in order to effect its closure, but was obliged to abandon the attempt because of the threatening attitude of the population. At St. Ambroix, near Nîmes, the demonstrators detached the horses from the carriages which were conveying the sisters to the railway station, and dragged the vehicles, with their occupants, back to the convent, shouting "Down with the tyrants!" The gendarmes were powerless to prevent the demonstrators from carrying out their plans, and reinforcements had to be summoned.

Against these and similar incidents, however, must be set off the addresses in support of the government voted by many municipal councils.

While considerable sympathy is felt with the sisters personally, Prime Minister Combes undoubtedly feels that he is supported by the mass of the country and is not likely to recede from the position he has taken up. The trouble is caused mainly by the ambiguity of the wording of the law of associations, which has led branches of the congregations, such as the schools now closed, to suppose that their position was legalized by the request for authorization made by headquarters. This was even the interpretation of the matter accepted by M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the former premier, but Prime Minister Combes takes a contrary view.

Congressman Hepburn Says the State
Will Endorse Roosevelt.

New York, July 24.—Representative W. P. Hepburn of Iowa, who has been a visitor at President Roosevelt's home in Oyster Bay, said:

"I have been away from home so much that I am not fully in touch with Republican plans, but I am confident that our next state convention will heartily endorse President Roosevelt's administration.

"I know nothing of any plan to present Congressman Littlefield's name to succeed Speaker Henderson in the next house. I am confident that General Henderson will be chosen again for the speakership."

He is now in jail at Charleston. Hill had a wife in Delevan when he married Miss Bush, and was living with wife No. 3 when arrested.

FIRST GREAT RESERVOIR.

Land Set Aside for Irrigation Purposes in Colorado and Nebraska.

Sterling, Colo., July 24.—Telegraphic orders have been received by the local United States land office from the interior department at Washington withdrawing 890 townships, embracing 900,000 acres of land, located in Weld, Logan and Sedgwick counties, Colorado, and Cheyenne county, Nebraska, from public entry. This land is located on the north side of the South Platte river. It is believed that Chief Hydrographer Newell has recommended to the interior department that this land be set aside for the first great national reservoir under the new irrigation law. The preliminary survey will begin at once. If this survey is finally approved by Washington the building of the reservoir by the government will soon be begun.

Baltimore, Md., July 24.—It is estimated at Baltimore and Ohio headquarters that the Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Toledo railroad, between Newcastle Junction, Pa., and Akron, O., will be practically rebuilt at a cost of $4,000,000. The road will be straightened and the heavy grades reduced to a maximum of nineteen feet to the mile.

I work extremely quick when I am in health, and if the operation for cataract which I must shortly undergo restores my eyesight for me, as the doctor hopes it will, I may after all go on into my second century of volumes, for I am quite untired, and work, either at my books or at the municipal business of Amiens, is my chief recreation.

"The field of the romance writer of the future? You're quite right, the question is an interesting one, and I'm inclined to think my answer to it will astonish you. Where do I think will the novelist of the future seek the plots and the environment for his novels?"

Jules Verne leaned forward and drummed gently on the table. "I do not think there will be any novels or romances, at all events in volume form, in fifty or a hundred years from now," he said. And the old gentleman laughed at my surprise.

"But the romance," I said, "the novel, the descriptive story, the story historic and the story psychological?"

"They will all disappear," said M. Verne. "They are not necessary, and even now their merit and their interest are fast declining. As historic records the world will file its newspapers. Newspaper writers have learned to color everyday events so well that to read them will give posterity a truer picture than the historic or descriptive novel could do, and as for the novel psychological, that will soon cease to be and will die of inanition in your own lifetime."

Here M. Jules Verne got excited. "I am second to no living man," he cried, "in my admiration of the greatest psychologist the world has ever known, Guy de Maupassant, and he, like all true geniuses, foresaw the trend of human ideas and deeds and wrote his stories in the smallest possible compass. Each one of De Maupassant's soul studies is a concentrated lozenge of psychology.

"The De Maupassants who will deluge the world in years to come will do so in the newspapers of the day and not in volumes, and they will, as you newspaper men express it, crystallize the psychology of the world in which they live by 'writing up' the day to day events. The real psychology of life is in its news, and more truth—truth with a big T—can be gathered from the police court story, the railway accident, from the everyday doings of the crowd and from the battles of the future than can be obtained if an attempt is made to clothe the psychological moral in a garb of fiction."

"You mention battles. You do not think, then, that in the fullness of time all war must cease?"

"No, I do not think so. Nature will always sway the world, and it is man's nature to fight for supremacy, no matter how deadly the conflict may become."

Senator Platt's New Spoon.

Senator Thomas C. Platt of New York received many handsome reminders from friends on the occasion of his sixty-ninth birthday anniversary, says the New York Times. One that he prizes very highly is an exact counterpart of the spoon that has been used for 1,000 years in anointing the rulers of Great Britain.

A Roman Dinner.

A Roman dinner at the house of a wealthy man consisted chiefly of three courses. All sorts of stimulants to the appetite were first served up, and eggs were indispensable to the first course. Among the various dishes we may instance the guinea hen, pheasant, nightingale and the thrush as birds most in repute. The Roman gourmands held peacocks in great estimation, especially their tongues. Macrobius states that they were first eaten by Hortensius, the orator, and acquired such repute that a single peacock was sold for 50 denarii, the denarius being equal to about eightpence halfpenny of our money.—Chambers' Journal.

No Need of Assistance.

The father of the family had stepped into a bookstore to buy a birthday present for his fourteen-year-old son. "What kind of book would you like?" asked the salesman to whom he had confided his purpose.

"Something that would be useful for the boy," was his reply.

"Well, here is a very good one on 'Self help.'"

"Self help!" exclaimed the father. "Ben don't need anything of that kind. You'd ought to see him at the dinner table!"
